The Chicago Daily Tribune.

VOLUME —. SUNDAY, APRIL 13, 1884—TWENTY-FOUR PAGES. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

ENVY, ANGER, AND SORROW

May be read through the lines of the advertisements of our competitors, who find it difficult to make up their mind that it is useless to run a race against the

BEE-HIVE,

THE ONLY RECOGNIZED

Leading Millinery Establishment!

IN THE NORTHWEST.

Our Spring Opening Has Been a Marvelous Phenomenal Success!

What the Chicago Press Says about the Spring Opening of the Bee-Hive:

From the Chicago Tribune, April 9: "It marks the start of the Millinery trade throughout the Northwest."
From the Chicago Times, April 9: "The Bee-Hive more than ever is justly called the Leading Millinery Establishment in the Northwest."
From the Chicago Daily Inter-Ocean, April 9: "The Millinery Opening of the Bee-Hive is indeed brilliant in all great respects."
From the Illinois Staats-Zeitung, April 9: "The variety of styles exhibited during the present season beside everything heretofore attempted by the Bee-Hive or any other establishment in the great city."

HOUSEKEEPERS' WEEK!

Commencing tomorrow we shall inaugurate a sale of Goods suitable for Housekeepers, and we propose to convince our patrons and the public generally that it will be to their interest to give us the preference.

We Give an Absolute Guarantee

That our Prices are the Lowest or refund the money.

IN MANY INSTANCES

We promise a clear saving of 25 per cent, as compared with others, as we have secured large lots from recent Eastern Auction Sales that cannot be duplicated by others for the same price.

CARPETS.

Our assortment is now patterns is second to none in this city, and we advise to make a selection NOW from a complete stock BEFORE MAY FIRST, if possible, to avoid the rush which is sure to follow the so-called "Moving Day."

Ingrain Carpets.

An excellent line of Ingrains width, at 25c. per yard (regular price 40c.)

Very wide, good strong colors, at 29c. per yard (others ask 35 cts. per yard).

Very wide, double warp, at 37 cts. per yard (others get 50 cts. per yard).

SUNDAY, APRIL 15, 1894.

Edward H. Castle, United States Consul at Stuttgart, Germany, died of apoplexy in England yesterday while en route to his country.

Chicago's best as Mineral Point, Wis., is what the public finds there were deposited, about its doors yesterday morning. The assets are placed at $150,000 and the liabilities two hundred.

Texas will be a general reopening of business in Boston Monday. The announcement made by the Government to the banks of the southwest have been promptly satisfactory to the latter.

Octavius Rasmussen, of New York, and Gen. Samuel W. Hunter have been elected to represent the Twelfth New York District in the National Republican Convention. They are instructed to be for Blaine.

The English shipowners continue to oppose Mr. Chamberlain's bill, which will probably be defeated. They claim that he would place them at a disadvantage when compared with the shipowners of other countries.

Mr. Peabody's proposition that 1½% contribution should subscribe for the payment of salaries to their representatives in Parliament has been received with much favor and will be generally acted on by the people of Ireland.

Gen. Dearing, in whose honor Dearing, Ohio, was named, a native of Virginia, and who was of no less distinction of Kansas, is the latest person mentioned as a Democratic Presidential candidate. He has a Dearing flavor as such for him.

Between the first quarter of the present year the issue of two-cent stamps exceeded the issue for the corresponding period of last year by 37 per cent. There has been a falling off in the postal-card issue of 15,000,000 since the inauguration of the two-cent rate.

Pennsylvania is likely to send an almost solid Blaine delegation to the National Republican Convention. Following the example of the Ohio Republican convention already held, the Pennsylvania District Conventions at Erie and the Eighth District Convention at Scranton yesterday instructed delegates for the Blaine from their States.

The Liberal Unionists and other English anti-separatists in Ireland regard Gladstone's scheme for granting alleged Irish home rule as the opening wedge to complete separation. They assert that the persons recently elected at Nottingham and Liverpool, and in other possible engineering constituencies, are partisans either of Lord Salisbury or Mr. Chamberlain.

Texas is a participant of the shipping industry of Great Britain. At Hartle, in the county of England, 4,000 masons are out of work, 100 steamers are lying idle in the Tyne side, and 10,000 ship laborers in that region cannot find anything to do. A similar state of things prevails on the Clyde and in other shipbuilding localities.

During the month of March $14,424,429 worth of breadstuffs was exported from the United States. The exports for March, 1893, were valued at $21,341,000. During the nine months ending March 31 there has been a falling off as compared with the corresponding nine months of the previous fiscal year amounting to over $40,000,000.

It is added that there will be no attempt to relieve Electrocution during the summer months. The climate of the country is too hot to the British soldiers. An attempt will be made, however, in the soldiers, before the Soudan difficulty is settled before them, to relieve or reserve Carbon. Cold air effect will be quite immediate and expensive even then.

Further's scientific advisers, the purpose of which is to simplify the landmark passage of the "congested" (commercial) districts of Cities and Cincinnatis to the unoccupied lands of other parts of the State), is meeting with great success. The Catholic priests are willing, and are subscribing for shares in the company to further this purpose which Mr. Daniel has organized.

The Chicago produce markets were dull Saturday, provisions being weaker, with grain very heavy. As compared with Thursday, closing prices were lower in the values of 7½ cents on pork and lard, 12 cents on wheat, 12½ cents on oats, 1 cent on corn, and cracked corn on sale, within two days. The loss, the aggregate of wheat alone last week exceeded the receipts by about 700,000 bushels.

Owing to the interregnum which has characterized the rules and recommendations of the Public Buildings Committee of the House of Representatives there is a growing disposition on the part of the majority to reconsider the order giving the committee several days' time for the discussion of the appropriation bills. A motion to this effect was defeated in the House yesterday by 151 to 77. A similar motion will be presented early this week, and is likely to meet with more favor.

It was extensively reported in Washington yesterday that Senator Kyle Hunger and Representative John D. Wise and Benjamin Harper visited Mr. Stone at his residence in that city with a view to political negotiations. The straightout Republicans, headed by Dunnell and Watkins, are understood to be for Stone, and the Democrats, feeling that he is going to win, are anxious to make terms with him if possible. There seems to be no doubt that the visit was paid. Its purpose is another question.

In the case of Mrs. Anna Schenk, of the Children's Industrial Home at La Grange, whose trial in the Cook County Criminal Court occupied the latter part of last week, the jury yesterday returned a verdict of guilty on seven counts of the indictments charging her with cruelty to the children placed under her charge. It is believed that the sentence of the court will be a fine and imprisonment for a few months in the County Jail. Mrs. Schenk seemed to be much disappointed at the result of the trial.

The Cook County Republican Convention, which met yesterday to select delegates to the State Convention at Peoria, was a very harmonious gathering. Mr. E. G. Keith presided. One hundred and thirty-seven delegates were selected. They are unknownable only for fidelity, and are much divided in their preferences for other State officers. A resolution indorsing Senator Logan's course in opposition to the Pre John Porter bill, and his career as a soldier and statesman generally, was adopted on the motion of George Willis.

The markets of this city touched the lowest point from the last Monday, May wheat then selling at 70½c, May corn at 46½c, and May pork at $13.65. Since that date the feeling has been very uncertain, and quotations badly unsettled, though pork has sold more than 50 above the minimum figure. The chief interest in the corner centers in wheat, which continued materially over the close of the week in the belief that a large buyer in Milwaukee had extended at the advance and that considerable quantities purchased here for export have been resold.

We print in another column this morning an interesting letter addressed to the editor of The Tribune by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. His subject is: "The Tariff and the Abolition of Parties Thereby." Mr. Beecher has been favored with the opportunity heretofore of advocating a reduction of the tariff and at the same time supporting for the Presidency a candidate who represented opposite views. Mr. Beecher very well points out that the only hope of tariff reform lies in the success of Republican men and measures unless parties inconsistently is supported by the party. There can be no refuge for honest tariff reformers in the Democratic party, whose intelligent in the treatment of this as of all other important public questions very flagrant and brilliant specimens are not hardly below the surface of culture.

We print among our letters from the people on political topics this morning one from "S. P. S.," Peoria, in which she shows of the Logan upon the true interests and of the entire country are rather tortuously set forth. It seems the writer himself has doubts regarding the efficacy of an attempt made by the Peoria County Republican to deny into convention to attract attention to those claims, but the letter is nevertheless interesting and will repay the reading of perusal. The novel and wisely unexpected idea is advanced therein that the Logan would carry New York and all the important cities in which the balance of power is held in restricted by the Irish Catholic vote. It can decide the practicality upon of these of the Logan support in the event of its nomination; but a sentiment for "S. P. S." to exhibit a narrow horizon the future services to the best of these citizens and the development of Illinois. Yes and Heath, it of some power. At the same time to said that Mr. Blaine, largely because of its opposition from, and because "Blaine is stronger than Logan," is as great a favorite with the Irish as the Senator from Illinois.

The result of the Chicago District Republican Convention contested will be disappointing to those Republicans of the West and South Sides who favored the election of prejudiced delegates. Congressmen Davis and Mr. Wilson, who were elected to the United States Convention, will heartily support Allison, and willing circumstances will do all in their power to prevent the nomination of Blaine or Logan. The sentiment so out of the about Logan, one of the South Side delegates, and Mr. Wentworth, though elected as an ardent independent delegate, is likely to vote with the educated colleagues. The National Convention will have to pass on the credentials of the contesting delegations from the Second District, Mr. Daniel L. Harwood and ex-Speaker Colton, the delegates from the Fourth District, are stanch Logan men, and it is probable that in the event of the failure of their favorite to win they will go for Davis. The "re-pledged" delegates of the South and West Sides, from preconventional, have bound to choose delegates pledged in favor of President Allison, who is not the first choice of the Republicans of either district. The "re-pledged" delegate movement has been a development since from the beginning. Yesterday's convention exposed the trapping. The declared Republicans of the West and South Sides who have been deceived for the first time that Mr. Allison's friends have been engaged in "a still hunt" in Cook County, and have enjoyed them at their delegates through the "re-pledged" movement, have determined to knock for it. In the case of Mr. J. L. Woodward, the only one of all the delegates elected who is only in a county where "Allison," or some kind of spirit, some figure could be obtained on demand, all the so-called best citizens have every one known who drink the cheaper wines. The testimony of candid acknowledgments, that the ads of last week will not yield a sufficient revenue to live upon. But, in spite of all this, nearly 600 local dealers have already been advertised, and will give no privileges to any Allisonite or visual figures of any kind. The inference is, that the creation of the law is deliberately contemplated by a large number of the Assemblies.

The law is now in the hands of the Mayor and the police. The Mayor must feel a special sense of responsibility: first, because he is generally trusted with the discretion to grant and revoke licenses, and, secondly, because it was mainly due to his influence that the disinfecting house was adopted by the Council. He is bound to take notice of the evidence about to create the law which is to result in the large number of applications for the close hours. This evening should prompt him to adopt measures of precaution at the outset. Whatever an application for a late license is made he or his subordinates should take pains to inquire whether the applicant has not been in the habit of selling wine or liquor in the past, and to ascertain whether the liquor traffic is not likely to continue. Whenever he is satisfied that the affirmative will not confine itself to the sale of beer alone, and this conviction will be the result of every strict investigation, he should refuse with the unanimous, impress upon him the iniquity of law-breaking, warn him of the strict surveillance which will be put upon his actions, and inform him to take out a system [illegible] rather than risk the forfeiture of his privilege and prosecution under the law. In other case of the Mayor by his course would probably avert the threatened multiplication of the law, and the number of taverns in which the consumptions should fall would be so small that the police would be able to keep watch of them and enforce the law. If the Mayor is honest in his declaration of the purpose to enforce the law he will save himself much trouble and the city considerable expense by directing some prompt calculable about it now.

One thing is very certain: The larger the number of beer houses saved now the more there will be after a time. The men who are taking out $500 licenses in the early, at the most of them, pay for only one-third of the license year. If they find that those who have taken out the cheap licenses are permitted to continue their old business of selling wine and liquor when their new-settled for, the $500 men will soon fall into the $100 class. The law of revenge to the city will be enormous, and the whole system will be brought into disrepute. If the shall prove to be the result, no one will be so much blamed for it as Carter H. Harrison, and no one else has so much power to avert that result himself.

The English papers, and prominently among them the Pall Mall Gazette, are discussing with considerable interest the question of providing amusements for the workingmen and poorer classes of the people. In speaking of this want of entertainment for them the Gazette says:

Among one of the amusements which the poor seek instead of healthful sports are the dog and cock contests, and no facts appear so sure of favorable to our nothing to their praise. It is a pity that the poor have not shared in the general increase of decency and good order which has been so much of pleasing to reading men, to whom the sight of them. It is a great pity, for instance, that the fashions of the present day do not lead the poor to take to boxing. Boxing is a fine, manly, healthful exercise, and if the poor, who have not the means of taking exercise, were fond of it, they would be saved from many temptations to drink, and from many vices. Boxing, moreover, is a fine, manly sport, and excites no angry passions. There are other good sports which are not open to the poor, but which they should be encouraged to take to. Rowing, for instance, is a fine exercise, and there are many young men who would be glad to go in for it if they could afford the expense. Cricket, too, is a fine game, and there are many young men who would be glad to play it if they could afford the expense. Cricket, too, is a fine game, and there are many young men who would be glad to play it if they could afford the expense.

Two Democratic Congressmen, Messrs. Wise and Harper, of Virginia, and one or two of the Silver wing Republicans will vote in favor of the consideration of the Bartlett Tariff bill. With these exceptions the Republicans will oppose discussion of the measure, and Speaker Crisp hopes to keep the Democratic protectionists solid in the contest.

Texas is a participant of the shipping industry of Great Britain. The sentiment so out of the about Logan, one of the South Side delegates, and Mr. Wentworth, though elected as an ardent independent delegate, is likely to vote with the educated colleagues. The National Convention will have to pass on the credentials of the contesting delegations from the Second District, Mr. Daniel L. Harwood and ex-Speaker Colton, the delegates from the Fourth District, are stanch Logan men, and it is probable that in the event of the failure of their favorite to win they will go for Davis. The "re-pledged" delegates of the South and West Sides, from preconventional, have bound to choose delegates pledged in favor of President Allison, who is not the first choice of the Republicans of either district. The "re-pledged" delegate movement has been a development since from the beginning. Yesterday's convention exposed the trapping. The declared Republicans of the West and South Sides who have been deceived for the first time that Mr. Allison's friends have been engaged in "a still hunt" in Cook County, and have enjoyed them at their delegates through the "re-pledged" movement, have determined to knock for it. In the case of Mr. J. L. Woodward, the only one of all the delegates elected who is only in a county where "Allison," or some kind of spirit, some figure could be obtained on demand, all the so-called best citizens have every one known who drink the cheaper wines. The testimony of candid acknowledgments, that the ads of last week will not yield a sufficient revenue to live upon. But, in spite of all this, nearly 600 local dealers have already been advertised, and will give no privileges to any Allisonite or visual figures of any kind. The inference is, that the creation of the law is deliberately contemplated by a large number of the Assemblies.

The law is now in the hands of the Mayor and the police. The Mayor must feel a special sense of responsibility: first, because he is generally trusted with the discretion to grant and revoke licenses, and, secondly, because it was mainly due to his influence that the disinfecting house was adopted by the Council. He is bound to take notice of the evidence about to create the law which is to result in the large number of applications for the close hours. This evening should prompt him to adopt measures of precaution at the outset. Whatever an application for a late license is made he or his subordinates should take pains to inquire whether the applicant has not been in the habit of selling wine or liquor in the past, and to ascertain whether the liquor traffic is not likely to continue. Whenever he is satisfied that the affirmative will not confine itself to the sale of beer alone, and this conviction will be the result of every strict investigation, he should refuse with the unanimous, impress upon him the iniquity of law-breaking, warn him of the strict surveillance which will be put upon his actions, and inform him to take out a system [illegible] rather than risk the forfeiture of his privilege and prosecution under the law. In other case of the Mayor by his course would probably avert the threatened multiplication of the law, and the number of taverns in which the consumptions should fall would be so small that the police would be able to keep watch of them and enforce the law. If the Mayor is honest in his declaration of the purpose to enforce the law he will save himself much trouble and the city considerable expense by directing some prompt calculable about it now.

One thing is very certain: The larger the number of beer houses saved now the more there will be after a time. The men who are taking out $500 licenses in the early, at the most of them, pay for only one-third of the license year. If they find that those who have taken out the cheap licenses are permitted to continue their old business of selling wine and liquor when their new-settled for, the $500 men will soon fall into the $100 class. The law of revenge to the city will be enormous, and the whole system will be brought into disrepute. If the shall prove to be the result, no one will be so much blamed for it as Carter H. Harrison, and no one else has so much power to avert that result himself.

ANTHRACITE FOR THE TROTH.

The English papers, and prominently among them the Pall Mall Gazette, are discussing with considerable interest the question of providing amusements for the workingmen and poorer classes of the people. In speaking of this want of entertainment for them the Gazette says:

Among one of the amusements which the poor seek instead of healthful sports are the dog and cock contests, and no facts appear so sure of favorable to our nothing to their praise. It is a pity that the poor have not shared in the general increase of decency and good order which has been so much of pleasing to reading men, to whom the sight of them. It is a great pity, for instance, that the fashions of the present day do not lead the poor to take to boxing. Boxing is a fine, manly, healthful exercise, and if the poor, who have not the means of taking exercise, were fond of it, they would be saved from many temptations to drink, and from many vices. Boxing, moreover, is a fine, manly sport, and excites no angry passions. There are other good sports which are not open to the poor, but which they should be encouraged to take to. Rowing, for instance, is a fine exercise, and there are many young men who would be glad to go in for it if they could afford the expense. Cricket, too, is a fine game, and there are many young men who would be glad to play it if they could afford the expense. Cricket, too, is a fine game, and there are many young men who would be glad to play it if they could afford the expense.

Two Democratic Congressmen, Messrs. Wise and Harper, of Virginia, and one or two of the Silver wing Republicans will vote in favor of the consideration of the Bartlett Tariff bill. With these exceptions the Republicans will oppose discussion of the measure, and Speaker Crisp hopes to keep the Democratic protectionists solid in the contest.

THE CHEAP LIQUOR.

While little has been said lately about the renewal and organized movement to nullify the liquor-license ordinance, which failed and to pressure. Like opponents to the pledge to take out the first-class license and continue to sell wines), still it is noteworthy that a considerably large number of saloonkeepers are applying for the cheap license. We think the universal testimony of those familiar with these practices, if honestly given, would be that there is not today a single saloon in Chicago which confines its business to the sale of beer alone—not one where wines," "champ," or some kind of spirits are figure cannot be obtained on demand. All the so-called best saloons have every one known who drink the cheaper wines. The testimony of candid acknowledgments, that the ads of last week will not yield a sufficient revenue to live upon. But, in spite of all this, nearly 600 local dealers have already been advertised, and will give no privileges to any Allisonite or visual figures of any kind. THE ELECTIONEERING PROPHETS.

Tomorrow evening Mr. Clarence Thomas will commence his great tour of festivals and concerts with the Vogue Festival in Boston, which embraces six concerts. The whole season includes fifty-nine concerts, covering a period of ten weeks, twenty-nine of which belong to festivals. The dates are as follows: Boston Vogue Festival, six concerts, April 16-21; New York, three concerts, April 23-25; Philadelphia, three concerts, April 26-28; Richmond, Va., one concert, April 30; Washington, one concert, May 1; Baltimore, two concerts, May 2-3; the following week is set forth instead open, but one concert will be given in Philadelphia May 10; Pittsburg, two concerts, May 10-11; festival at Chicago, seven concerts, May 12-17; Indianapolis, one concert will be given in St. Louis, Memphis, Kansas City, Cedar Rapids, Milwaukee, and Detroit, and festivals in Minneapolis and Buffalo.

In this same fair six weeks, Saturday, Mr. Thomas will devote his time to the Exposition Building—an orchestra of 120 pieces, which for certain works, like the Berlioz "Dies," will be increased to 150, and a chorus of 500 voices, reinforced by nine solo artists, from Boston, Carl Wolfsohn, and Carl Duelle, the trio who created the leading parts in the San Saveurs Dubillon, and are the most prominent interpreters of Wagner's music-drama world). Miss Clotilde Von Stosch, who has the honor of opening the festival in the "Creation," and closing it in the "Lobengrin," singing successively in the Vogue cathedral for breath city of five in crowded auditorium from "Lobengrin," and with Fran Scalera the great duet for flute and [illegible]. Miss Emma Juch, a young American singer who has already made a favorable impression here, is upon; Miss Winant, the contralto, who is well and favorably associated with the Chicago public; Mr. Dudley Buck, the tenor; Mr. Heinrich, a rising baritone; and Mr. Bennett, who is growing to be the pet tenor of our festivals. The progress which have been arranged are quite rare, including three great symphonies and a number of large works, besides selections from Wagner's operas, and a miscellaneous program for the closing evening, which will doubtless consist of the most artistic and the large attendance during the week. Mr. Thomas has been meeting with such remarkable success during the last year.

With such programs and artists, with such a magnificent auditorium and chorus, the festival should be a great success. It is the event to which Chicago people should take a deep and enthusiastic interest. It is not a money-making affair, not a speculation for personal enrichment. Its success is guaranteed by fifty-eight prominent gentlemen of this city, who are interested to music. If money is not then will have their proportion of the loss. If any money is made the profits will go into the treasury of the association to be applied to future festivals. The success of the festival alone should command it to the patronage and sympathy of all lovers of music in Chicago. The chorus and the concerts give their time and work to the festival, and their only compensation is the delight which they can give the public by the interpretation of their work, which cannot be satisfactorily performed in any other manner. The expense of such a festival is very heavy, and the least the public can do is to see that no loss is incurred, especially when such an unusual opportunity is offered for their money. It is not often that the opportunity is offered to hear such great artists and such a noble orchestra and chorus [illegible] by the great musicians of the world), and for this reason there should be no hesitation now in the matter. Chicago is really able to support its social festivals, and the festival of 1894 should be as unanimously recommended as to have a generous success the first of 1893. It will hardly be available in Chicago at that musical habit if, after having four years among an overly-equipped opera troupe, she does not fill the Exposition Building to overflowing.

Senator Vest thinks he has very much on the free members of Congress and others of the Government should not be in any way connected to the party in this way. If was the object of the people to [illegible]

New York of the spectacle of the war in which the Czar Officer of New York issued an order having the Chairmanship of the Republican State Committee, and the other Federal position now vested themselves in all the minor places of party management, that all to the evening debut of the Republicans in that State. When I was proposed to Senator Vest Wing by a member of his friends that he should take a glass in the Palmetto Association in the Chicago Convention to all gation in the Chicago Convention to all present the following vote of declination to their representative:

Washington, D. C., April 5.—Col. E. J. Hale, of Bennettsville, S. C.: Your favor to your friend and Palmetto friends received. I cannot and cannot consent to be a candidate for the National Convention.

I have always believed that the delegates should be made up of men who have made their permanent residence in the State they represent, and who are known to the people of the State. I have always entertained the opinion that a man should not be a candidate for the office of delegate to the National Convention.

I have always believed that the delegates should be made up of men who have made their permanent residence in the State they represent, and who are known to the people of the State. I have always entertained the opinion that a man should not be a candidate for the office of delegate to the National Convention.

In my own opinion, the delegates should be made up of men who have made their permanent residence in the State they represent, and who are known to the people of the State. I have always entertained the opinion that a man should not be a candidate for the office of delegate to the National Convention.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant, C. H. VAN WYCK.

It is reported that Editor Lincoln is to be a candidate for delegate to the Chicago Convention. We advise him to read, ponder, and carefully digest Senator Van Wyck's words. They may save him the humiliation of being told by the people of Ohio that they prefer that he should attend to the business for which he was elected and let them manage their own political affairs as they may think best without his help.

Tammany and her gang for each other, but when the journalistic leopard feels his spots with innocent and helpless field mice, whose friendships and confidence have in the past been betrayed by the leopard, to obtain a basis, by way to vote that he will provoke a hostile, to which even those who laughed the incident with the air of that will the last the most downright of the old, Jacksonian of his trial is now occupying the New York Prisons, which was visiting, for a hour or the visitors and contemplation, to inquire a spot the Bulldog Jackson on the rough and rocky point of the convict political jobs which has now been perpetrated in America. The New York Evening Post says that the town "has got three laborers friends which are never to succeed." The Philadelphia Bulletin makes another side of the question after when it remarks that the New York mayor must have "reached the lowest depths when, in connection with lodging sometimes [illegible] with the chief duties of crime and vice, they the need to manufacturing stuff to bring on "genuine men of honest take interests." The Utica (N. Y.) Press says: "The New York Telegraph pats to put 'dog up the hose' was most disagreeable and unpalatable. It performs in the New-day town, the town to which the article originally appeared, to be serious and literary. But the dishonest willing it should "use the support of its most valued readers."

The New York Tribune advertises itself as "the best position newspaper." When the issue of last Sunday containing the misrepresentation of Mr. Matthew Arnold—whom Lord Coleridge cites in this country described as the most distinguished living English man of letters—reaches its English readers and undergraduates what will they think of the "best newspaper"?

Charles Becker for State Treasurer.

The Republican Convention of St. Clair County passed the following resolution:

Resolved, by the Republican County Convention of St. Clair County, in convention assembled, that we heartily recommend the nomination of Charles Becker for the office of State Treasurer, and that we pledge our hearty support to him and his candidacy.

THE HOUSE UNANIMOUS

Washington, D. C., April 14.—(Special.)—The Democrats in the House tried to let an innocent-looking resolution today. When they almost had it through by a vote of more than two to one a resolution giving the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds control of the business of the House for an indefinite period they did not exactly understand what they were doing. While they have shown the only determination to pursue seven or eight bills for new buildings, they already fully realize that they are out of business and do for them, and they are trying to devise some means to avoid the consequences of that, were inconsistencies here. Some of them who are heartily opposed to the Hepburn bill even today said about the only thing they would do to escape from the Public Buildings Committee was to allow the Hepburn bill to be brought forward and discussed, as the Public Buildings Committee has no right under the special order to antagonize an appropriation, or a provision for one. But two hours before the beginning of the session in the forenoon were consumed in an effort led by Mr. Thompson, of Kentucky, to have the rules for the Public Buildings Committee suspended. There was a long struggle over a point of order made by Mr. Dalzell, and the Speaker finally left the matter to the House itself, as a fair and true test, whether the Democrats had a right to control the calendar. This is a growing opposition to the policy of the Public Buildings Committee, and it is quite probable that by next week enough of the Democratic Democrats will have become alarmed to give the appearance of the necessary majority, so that other committees may be considered.

One prominent man,

The natural situation, of which has not escaped the friends of the Hepburn bill, and other bodies of them understand the practical conditions that Hepburn will be able to get a majority for consideration of the bill. They have been trying to devise some plan to get a vote on the bill, and the Democrats have been unable to suggest any. Mr. Hepburn has been in consultation with Democrats who have been anxious to get the bill through, and it is probable that the Democrats will be given the opportunity to vote on it, as that other committee may be considered.

New York, April 14.—[Special Correspondence of The Tribune.] The popular entertainment in ballroom circles just now is quadrilles. In almost every corner of our metropolis assembly parties are formed to meet each week for this pleasure, and the latest fad in English society circles is to have a short talk on this pleasing subject before the dancing begins. I do not know of a quadrille party in which the hostess or the dancers do not enjoy themselves, and the fact that there is a fascination about the dance which interests every other set and number of terpsichorean devotees is the reason why the quadrille, which is the favorite dance of the fashionable world in England, has become so popular in this country. The opening of many houses, which, by-the-by, is a pastime much to this [illegible] of New York, is followed later after a few formal calls have been made by the quadrille party. Then the hostess of the occasion sends out invitations for the dance, and the success of the affair depends upon the number of the guests who are invited and the presence of that distinguished element which gives to the best parties, and which is of the most attractive element to society leaders. Fashionable as the present fashion of chaperoning is not one which upon inspecting the evenings of the dance will have much the desire of girls who, like to dance, to [illegible] to society. This is, to say the least, annoying, and suggests a long list for any entertainment starting of experience and disappointment. But this is not the only reason to cast the patient out to please the most fastidious in society's [illegible] Patronage is so necessary to success, of course, that even those who have the reading of every right hand palm, disagreeing to express a favorable opinion as to the prospects of a half-witted specimen of genuine science for the appearance of your countenance, and you will be made happy by a totally different interpretation of the art. It is reported that the elements which are the ongoing causes of failure and [illegible] attention to formal dancing with social functions generally, and it is most quite natural, to [illegible] such a [illegible] of the fair hostess, who presents in dancing by the fair hostess, who presents in dancing [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

THE FIRST CONTESTS

The State Congressional Convention met at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the auditorium Grand opera house theater. The delegates began to assemble as early as 10 o'clock, and before the convention was called to order there was a good deal of canvassing and handshaking indulged in. It was generally conceded that the "machine" would have the best of it, and from almost each to be found it was not difficult to see that the majority of those "machine" delegates were active men. The map given out to the newspapers.

At half past 2 o'clock Lee W. Buell, of the Third Ward, called the convention to order, and Charles H. Comstock, of Sixth Ward, read the call.

W. H. Thee, of the Second Ward, moved that John Donnelley, of Grand, be made temporary chairman. Carried unanimously.

George D. Sutherland, of the Second Ward, and John D. Pratt, of the Third Ward, were made temporary secretaries.

Credits to the Second and Fourth Wards were presented when the credentials were handed in, but when Burke, of the Fourth Ward moved that the delegates present having credentials from the regularly appointed judges of the Convention be declared the delegates to the convention, Of course this was carried, the delegates voting accordingly to this motion, and the temporary officers were made permanent.

ORGANIZATION AND CONVENTIONS.

It was agreed that the first business to attend to was the appointment of a Congressional committee of one from each of the Wards of Rock Island, and Mr. Pratt, of the Third Ward, moved that the chairman appoint. The motion was carried with great applause.

Mr. Buell thought the delegates to the National Convention should be instructed. Mr. Pratt moved that the delegates be instructed to support the present incumbent. Mr. Comstock moved that the "machine" word had been used of it, and from almost each to be found it was not difficult to see that the majority of those "machine" delegates were active men. The map given out to the newspapers.

A Sanitary Bath

The perfection of the Sanitary Bath, as placed in the private dwellings, public buildings, etc., by the Crane Co., is now such as to command universal approval by all, if they are interested in Health, and comfort. The Crane Co. manufactures and perfects in its own factories and workshops, and controls absolutely every article of construction and finish entering into the completion of our sanitary and heating apparatus. Crane Co., Chicago, therefore, is in the position to assure instant and prompt attention to all orders, to construct and install and warrant the entire work under its own supervision. The Company, also, is the only one that can guarantee from factories owned and controlled by itself, the highest output of accessories which might form substitutes or inferior
